Monkeys Make People Smile™

We Make Monkeys Out of People™

Pgh Monkeyhouse offers Original Monkey Paintings™ and Holiday Monkey Postcards as unique gifts for the Season

October 25, 2004

Pittsburgh based Pgh Monkeyhouse references your photographs for their mixed media process of turning people into monkeys. Since the development of this process in 2000 by artist Heather Mallak, hundreds of Pittsburghers have been made into monkeys. These portraits can be seen at galleries, coffee shops, art stores and homes around the city. One monkey portrait of a bride and groom to be, became the image on the wine bottles they gave to guests. Now, together with partner Dror Yaron as DYHM creative, the multi-media artists live and work out of an old bowling pin factory on the top of Mt. Washington, Pgh. The two were brought together by the monkeys, fell in love and are pleased to present Pgh Monkeyhouse's Original Monkey Paintings + Monkey Holiday Postcards to the world - www.pghmonkeyhouse.com

You don't have to be in the same place at the same time to be pictured together as monkeys. Pgh Monkeyhouse combines up to four separate photos, resulting in a piece of artwork with one to four monkeys. This way, it's easy to synchronize everyone wearing their favorite facial expressions. Plus everybody looks youthful as a monkey, since most wrinkles do not show with our illustrative process.

Monkey turtles - Yes, we do pets. Experience ranging from cats and dogs to turtles.

Original Monkey Paintings, created on a 16 x 20 ready-to-hang archival wood panel, customers can select the three background colors, or leave it up to Pgh Monkeyhouse. Don't fight over the artwork... paintings of the same people can be made into multiples. Each painting is unique, just like the individuals portrayed, so no two will look exactly the same.

Monkey Holiday Postcards used as a Season's Greetings, can save money on postage and create instantaneous smiles. Postcard customers have a choice of three backgrounds; primary, pastel or seasonal. On the reverse side of the card, you can enter up to 100 words, specific to the holidays, invitations, thank you's, notecards, "from the desk of" or leave blank for multiple uses. Postcards come in multiples of 100 and measure approximately 4 x 6 inches, which fits in most standard size frames. Monkeys can make people smile long after they've received their postcard by displaying this limited edition print in their home.

As we evolve, Pgh Monkeyhouse plans to expand by offering more monkey products. In our few years of making monkeys, some famous and recognizable faces have been placed into our paintings. We are currently developing an on-line Monkey Museum that will build upon our collection to include memorable figures in popular culture history, according to you.
